Many Records Broken.

Nathaniel Phillips, July 9.—Many records have been broken at the aviation meeting here during the week, but the most sensational flights have been made by Leo Morane, the French aviator, who today, in a new 100-horsepower, biplane monoplane, covered five kilometers (3.1 miles) in two minutes and fifty seconds, and ten kilometers in five minutes and forty-seven seconds, and by M. Labouchere, also a Frenchman, who broke the world's record for distance, flying 340 kilometers (211.1 miles) in a single flight in four hours thirty-seven minutes and forty-five seconds.

The most remarkable achievement of a remarkable day was that of Morane, who made his flight of more than a mile a minute while ten other machines were in the air. As compared with his, they seemed to be standing still.

The day closed with additional time and distance records. Phillips reduced the 100 kilometers record (62.2 miles) to one hour and eight minutes. Aubrun, in a monoplane with a single passenger covered 135 kilometers (83.9 miles) in two hours, nine minutes and twenty seconds. Labouchere was awarded a special prize of $1,000 for breaking Oleslager's record of 250 kilometers, made before the competition for the single distance prize.

The constructors' prize for the greatest total distance covered by three machines of one design goes to the Antonietti monoplane, which covered 2,744 kilometers (1,704 miles).

Legaigneux, in a biplane with a single passenger, made a daring flight. He climbed the tower of the Rhineland Cathedral, flew over the city for half an hour and returned to the field.

GETS HIS "RIGHTS"

Ernstville Steward Holds Up Steamship With Writ.

New York, July 9.—Henry Gibbick is a mild, unassuming, little man, but says he wants to have his rights. Having been told that he held the steamship Koenigsluis, he called at noon for Europe, at her dock for over an hour while her thousand passengers were waiting. Gibbick was once a steward on the steamship, and it is said, was discharged for "spilling hot soup down a dignitary's back." The steward sued for wages alleged due him.

Just as the Koenigsluis was sailing in her gang planks to-day the

CUTICURA CURES STAY CURED

First Father is Cured of an Eruption that Burned and Itched Day and Night. Then Baby is Cured of a Distressing Rash.

Neighbors Pleased to Find a Sure Cure for Skin Afflictions.

"I suffered for eight years with what the doctors called the 'seven year itch.' This was like small red pimples such as form on the face but they burned and itched, day and night. These pimples were on my ankles up, but mostly on my thighs and arms. I tried doctor after doctor but their medicines brought no relief. But at last I struck the right treatment. It was Cuticura. I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills—and a few applications brought relief. When I had used about half the set I was nearly cured and after two full sets I was well and best of all, I have stayed cured."

"About four months ago, our baby began to be covered with a rash and his head with a spreading sore. Back of the ears, the flesh cracked open and the poor baby would scratch till it bled. He worried, cried and could not sleep. Then we bought a set of Cuticura and with a few applications the burning and itching ceased, baby stopped worrying and could sleep. When this single set had gone we had no use for any more as baby was never troubled with the disease again. The neighbors who saw the condition of the baby all asked what cured him and when we told them, they were surprised and pleased to find a sure cure for their skin afflictions. Edward H. Carter, 323 North 87th St., Camden, N. J., Mar. 6, 1910."

A single set of Cuticura Ointment is often sufficient, rendering the most economical treatment for affections of the skin and scalp. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., New York. The Cuticura Ave. Boston, Mass.

WICKHAM HAS A SAY TO THIRD DISTRICT VOTERS

Concise and Timely Platform Upon Which He Proposes to Make the Race for Congress.

July 9th, 1910.
 I am a candidate for Congress from the Third Congressional District, subject to the Democratic primary to be held August 9, 1910, and respectfully ask for your vote and influence in my behalf.

I am a Democrat and bound by the Democratic platform. Its chief plank, as it seems to me, in the present condition of public affairs, and the most important for the correction of present public evils, is the reduction of the tariff. The enormously high cost of living, the extravagance of public expenditures and the menacing power of the great corporations in the enactment of national legislation, largely the evil consequences of a high tariff, have reached a point at which the opportunity of the average man to make an independent living and the very life of our representative form of government are alike threatened with destruction. The overburdened people feel this, and the Republican leaders in the last presidential election promised relief. But "The Interests" were too strong, and the promise was broken; the worst tariff law the country has ever known was passed and the Republican party proved once more that it cannot be trusted to legislate for the welfare of the average man.

It is not to be thought, however, that the people will continue to endure this wrong. To think so would be to despair of the republic. Recent congressional elections in New York and Massachusetts, where Democrats were elected in rock-rubbed Republican districts, and the grave doubts of the re-election of Congressman Dalzell, in the Pittsburgh District, show that the people are awake to the overwhelming importance of the tariff issue. There is much ground for hope that the next Congress will be Democratic. It is vitally important therefore that in Democratic districts no man should be returned whose record on this issue is doubtful.

In the next Congress the danger to tariff reform will come, not from the open, but from the concealed protectionist—from him who is a Democrat for other districts and a Republican for his own.
 If I am honored with a seat in Congress from this district I shall hold myself bound by every consideration of self-interest and of moral obligation to use my best efforts to perform these duties, which I classify, as I conceive, in the order of their relative importance. First, to secure the passage of such laws as shall promote the happiness and welfare of the hundred millions of people living in this country and its dependencies; second, to secure such appropriations for this district as its needs require, consistent with a wise and economical expenditure of the people's money; and third, to assist with energy and without favoritism every constituent who has business before the departments and in the administrative branches of the government at Washington. I realize in a great commercial and manufacturing community such as ours much of this quasi-public work must and ought to be done by the people's representative in Congress, and finally, in all matters of political duty I shall feel myself bound by the Democratic platform.

When the time shall come that my conscientious convictions will not suffer me to stand on the platform, I shall resign and return my commission to the party that gave it. Very respectfully,

W. W. Wickham

CONFERENCE ENDS SESSIONS TO-DAY

Delegates in Attendance From Nearly Every Southern State.

GREAT WORK FOR MISSIONS

Young People's Gathering Inspired by Addresses and Lectures.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
 Asheville, N. C., July 9.—The Southern Conference of the Young People's Missionary Movement, which will hold its closing session to-morrow evening, has been attended by delegates from almost every State of the South.

These have represented most of the evangelical denominations to be found in these States. During the ten days of the conference the delegates have assembled regularly in study classes and institute periods, where they have received careful instruction on missionary topics and in practical missionary methods from competent men and women in charge of the classes, all of which, they have been more thoroughly equipped as missionaries in the foreign and home fields of their respective denominations, and for work in connection with their local churches. The conference program has included also a number of addresses of that high order that guarantees helpful influence for the future to those who heard them.

Forty-Three Denominations.
 There are forty-three denominations represented in the Young People's Missionary Movement, and no feature of the organization and its work appeals so strongly to Christians at large as does the unity of these denominations in the common work of evangelizing the world, and in carrying out together the plans for missionary education. This spirit of unity which has prevailed in the organization from its beginning, is one of its strongest features, and it has been brought out very clearly in this conference. It has been found true that this unity of spirit and action has brought about an economy and an efficiency much to be desired, and has had much to do with securing the spiritual progress of the organization, which could not have hoped to have had the denominations act separately instead of acting as one united body.

The various mission boards of the Young People's Missionary Movement as a channel through which to circulate the missionary literature of the different denominations, hence the end of all of the movement's editorial, publishing and training work is strictly denominational, that is, people who are influenced must serve most effectively in the support of their denominational missionary agencies.

Sunday School Work.
 Nothing has been brought out more clearly along this line during this conference than that missionary instruction in the Sunday schools is growing with remarkable rapidity, and this is one of the most striking of the recent developments of the work of the Young People's Missionary Movement.

Leading Sunday school workers everywhere are coming to realize that missionary instruction is essential in order to secure full and complete religious education.

Among the most remarkable facts brought out during the conference is that with regard to the mission study campaign. When the Young People's Missionary Movement was organized in 1902, there were 2,000 young people enrolled in classes for the systematic study of missions. At the present time these classes show an enrollment of more than 137,000. It is through the agency of these classes that the missionary leaders of the present and the future are being trained.

Since the organization of this movement several hundred young people identified with it have volunteered as missionaries in the home and foreign field, and many of these have entered upon their work. A number of the delegates attending this conference are missionary volunteers.
 No collections have been taken during the conference. The money required for the support of the movement is secured through donations from friends of missions and from very small wholesale margins on its publications. The number of publications has been doubled in the past two years. The new literature being added as new openings in the churches are made for instruction.

One feature that falls under the head of the expansion necessary in order for the movement to accomplish its largest work, and one which will engage the attention of the management at once, is the addition to its present staff of leaders, of four new secretaries, one of whom shall devote his entire time to the South, another to the West, and a third to the East, and a fourth to the Rocky Mountain district. It is believed that the rapid growth and development of the movement during the past four years, the enthusiasm of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and the general awakening on the subject of missions, justify the appointment of these additional leaders.

Ready to Adjourn.
 The conference to-day was occupied largely with closing up the day's session. Everything is in readiness for the closing sessions of to-morrow, and adjournment will be at 10 o'clock.

It is expected that Rev. John A. Rice, D. D., of New Orleans, pastor of Payne Memorial Episcopal Church, South, will preach to-morrow, both morning and evening.

For Increase of Interest.
 When speaking at the institute period this morning, Edmund D. Soper gave as his closing message to the conference a number of helpful suggestions regarding missionary work in the Sunday school, recommending especially the use of pictures and illustrations.

He stated that when an effort was made to get the International Lesson Committee to arrange one missionary lesson for each quarter the committee refused to consider the recommendation on account of the fact that every lesson has in it missionary features that ought to be emphasized especially every Sunday. Missions, he said, is the heart throb of the Bible, and every teacher should seek to give prominence to the missionary truths in every lesson.

Mr. Soper spoke next of the importance of organizing Sunday school classes into mission study classes, and how important it is to have trained teachers to conduct these classes. The way in which to solve the problem of missionary education, he said, is to give prominence to missionary facts. He said it would be an ideal condition to get all the scholars in a Sunday school equally interested in missions, but that it was a condition not to be expected, and that the best way to interest a great many people in an enterprise is to get a few people tremendously earnest. He showed that this was the plan Jesus adopted when upon earth, and that it is the only plan that will work effectively. He called attention to the fact also that in every church there are two classes of members—those who do nothing more than sit and listen, and those who are willing to go out and work. He said, further, that the reason the contributions to missions are so small is because so few people, comparatively, are interested in this cause. When closing his address, Mr. Soper emphasized the fact that the teachers of mission study classes ought always to be those upon whom pastors can depend, and he showed how much dependent on the personal influence which these teachers exert.

Messages From Missionaries.
 Messages were heard from returned missionaries at the platform meeting to-day.

This evening the different denominations held their final gatherings, at which time the delegates outlined plans for larger accomplishments for the cause of missions during the coming year.

As a result of the several gatherings of the denominations, and as a result of the conference, the delegates have received much additional enthusiasm and earnest interest in the work of the mission boards of their own churches. They have resolved to give more to the cause individually and to use their influence in securing a large increase from their local churches this year over the amount contributed last year.

COMPLEXION BEAUTIFIER.—To soften, whiten and beautify the face, there is nothing better than the lotion made by dissolving four ounces of sulphur in a half-pint of hot water. Applied to the face, neck and arms this lotion will give the skin a youthful, clear, beautiful pinkish tint. It will remove that shiny, oily or scaly look and is much better than powder, as it does not show on the skin or rub so easily. It is inexpensive and very beneficial in preventing and removing wrinkles, freckles, tan and coarseness of the skin.

HAIR REMOVER.—You can get rid of the superfluous hair on your forehead and face if you will apply delicately a little of the cream. It is made by dissolving four ounces of salicylic acid in a half-pint of hot water. Apply to the surface from which you wish to remove the hair, allow to remain two or three minutes, then wash the paste off and wash thoroughly with hot water. This treatment removes any stray hairs and will not injure the skin. The hair will grow fresh each time it is used. The hair may return after the first two or three applications, but the treatment is continued it will finally disappear permanently.

SIMPLE EYE REMEDY.—Weak, tired or inflamed eyes as well as granulated eyelids are often the cause of less headaches and despondency. The use of a good, strengthening eye tonic, made by dissolving one ounce of quinine in half-pint alcohol. A few drops of this tonic in each eye daily will make them bright and clear. The remedy will not smart and is a big aid to those who wear glasses.

ALLERGENIC TONIC.—That tired, indifferent feeling so prevalent as warm weather approaches can be easily disposed of only by ridding the system of its impurities. A good, old-fashioned tonic that will fix one up and make one feel energetic and like working can be prepared at home at a small cost by adding half-ounce sugar and one ounce kaffirine in half-pint alcohol, then adding enough boiling water to make a quart.

Tablespoonful of this tonic before each meal will arouse the liver and digestive organs to their natural functions and remove all sallowness of the skin, giving one a feeling of new life—removing all symptoms of "spring fever."

HARMLESS FLESH REDUCER.—Too many of the so-called flesh reducers fail to do what is claimed for them or else injure the health. A reliable, safe and dependable flesh reducer can be made by dissolving four ounces of sodium bicarbonate in half-pint water. Take spoonful three times a day will do wonders for an overfat person.—Adv.
